DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. In claim 1, lines 19-21, the newly-claimed aspect of distinct regions (of the filament) having the same melting point is not supported by the originally-filed specification and thus, constitutes new matter (note that it is the first starting material and the second starting material (of the same single ingredient) that have the same melting temperature).

3. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The specification does not state or teach one of ordinary skill in the art how distinct regions (of a filament) have the same melting point. Without this disclosure, one of ordinary skill in the art could not practice the claimed invention.

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, lines 19-21, the aspect of distinct regions (of the filament) having the same melting point is incorrect because it is the first starting material and the second starting material (of the same single ingredient) that have the same melting temperature.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

8. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over DeLucia (U.S. Patent 6,274,238 B1).

DeLucia (see the entire document, in particular, col. 2, lines 23-32; col. 4, lines 39-49; Examples; Figure 1) teaches a process of making a multi-structural filament containing a single ingredient as claimed (including separately extruding first and second materials of the same single ingredient, extruding the two flows through a common die pack (Figure 1), treating the two flows to different temperature conditions (examples)), except that DeLucia does not explicitly teach the aspect of volume percent, which would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made in the process of DeLucia principally because DeLucia teaches the same filament structure (i.e., multi-structural) as recited in the instant claims.

Response to Arguments

9. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
